Mr. Elliott Haynes of Indian Mound, and G. C. Robertson of Dover, were in the city this week.

Mrs. A. M. Warfield left for Hopkinsville last Monday on a visit to her daughter, Mrs. Wood.

The Rev. John T. Hendrick of Paducah, Ky., is in our city on a visit to his sons and other relatives.

Mr. E. C. Hendricks was sworn in as a practicing attorney in the chancery court last Monday.

Miss Lizzie Leavelle, a popular young lady of Christian county, is in the city this week, visiting her friends.

Mr. A. H. Munford of the bar, took a flying trip to Perry county, Tenn., this week, on professional business.

Miss Laura Edmondson, of the Southside, has been visiting Miss Mary Caldwell, on Greenwood avenue, this week.

Mr. T. L. Porter, a large tobacco planter of old county, came down last Wednesday to attend the tobacco sales. He says, no "White Burley" for him.

If you will "Keep your little heart for me," you can get "Waked by a Kiss," at Owen & Moore's. These are songs to be found at the book and music store.

Judge Geo. E. Seay is holding chancery court this week, and making business. A litigant never complains that he is "in chancery" in his court.

Messrs. P. Caldwell and Junius Morris, two young gentlemen of Dickinson county, were in the city this week, the guests of Dr. Larkin. They made our office a pleasant call.

Mr. Jas. Dubois of Woodland, and an old friend and subscriber of the CHRONICLE, came in last week and renewed his allegiance to us. He said he couldn't live without the CHRONICLE.

Mr. Wm. T. Atkinson, the clever salesman at Owen & Moore's book and music store, ran up to Bowling Green, his old home, last Thursday, and spent several days on a visit to his family and friends.

Mr. B. H. Owen, Supreme Representative, and Messrs. G. B. Wilson, J. G. Joseph, A. A. Johnson, and other members of Cumberland Lodge, Knights of Pythias, this city, attended the annual session of that body in Nashville, this week.

Commodore Couts has become a gay commercial tourist, and talks glibly about the virtues of Cincinnati as a furniture market. He sold a large bill in our city while here. He promised to "cheer" us the next time he comes.

Messrs. Hugh Wallace, Winder McGavock, John DeGraffenreid and Judge Cook, all of Franklin, Tenn., were in the city Thursday night, and took in the "bazaar." They had been in attendance upon the marriage of Mr. Thos. DeGraffenreid, at Russellville, Ky.

Mrs. Sam Rice of Elkton, Ky., died in that city last Thursday night. She was a highly esteemed and amiable lady, and had many friends and acquaintances in this city who heard of her death with great sorrow. She was a sister of Mr. Jas. King, of this city.

He was talking to her the other night, and as he drew near to the soft and tender part where the question comes in, he began to falter, not being very fluent with the oily words of love's sweet persuasion. She grew impatient and started him with the exclamation, "Oh, let her babble."

Bristow's Register says: "Mr. H. E. Harrison, formerly of this place, now with V. L. Williams, of Clarksville, visited his friends and family last Sunday, accompanied by Miss Jennie Harrison and Sallie King, two of Clarksville's most attractive young ladies. The Elkton boys say come again and stay longer."

Mr. Ralph Semmes of Memphis, Tenn., who is a member of the famous Chickasaw Guards, and made many friends here during the Chick's summer campaign here, in 1879, showed his genial countenance around town this week. Ralph says the Clarksville boys are always hanging around Memphis, and he thinks a fair section of the city would do him no harm, but what is just and equitable.

Our friend, Mr. Ed. B. Williams, formerly with Messrs. Coulter Bros. & Stratton, of this city, has accepted a situation in the large wholesale dry-goods house of Messrs. Thomas, Dibley, Morgan & Co., of Nashville, Tenn. We congratulate this extensive house upon securing his services, for there is not a more thorough and competent salesman, in this line, in the state, than Ed. Williams. He will represent his house through this section of the country, and we advise the merchants to deal with him.

Went some young lady enacting the role of Angel Gordon to our Simmie?

Our old friend Thos. B. DeGraffenreid of Franklin, Tenn., was married in Russellville, Ky., last Thursday, Feb. 10th, to Miss Mattie Long of that city, the Rev. W. Baker performing the ceremony. This is an old chum of ours and we don't care if he has deserted the nobility of bachelors, he's a clever fellow "of the purest ray serene" and we wish him more joy and happiness in the possession of our vocabulary will permit us to express. He came down to our city last Thursday evening, en route home.

Major Frank Bristow of the Elkton Register, crept up to our altitudinarian last Thursday, and asked to see the youth with the dromedary name. He said he regarded the fellow who had the temerity to enter the journalistic arena at this time, as a "living curiosity," and wanted to see him. He asked us if we had received any offers from P. T. Barnum. We were glad to meet Major Bristow and found him agreeable and pleasant, but somehow or other he seemed a little weary and sad, and we could not account for it until he thoughtfully put his hand into the tail of his Prince Albert, and pulled out a pound bag of "White Burley" seed. Alas, he'd been over talking to Ingram and Riley.

E. of P.

The tenth annual session of the Grand Lodge of Tennessee, Knights of Pythias, convened in the hall of Myrtle Lodge No. 3, of Nashville, in that city last Tuesday morning. There were present R. L. C. White, Lebanon, Past Grand Chancellor; E. S. Mallory, Jackson, Grand Chancellor; A. J. Wheeler, Nashville, Grand Vice Chancellor; W. Bryce Thompson, Nashville, Grand Keeper of Records and Seal; W. Z. Mitchell, Memphis, Grand Master of Exchequer; J. W. Hughes, Brownsville, Grand Master at Arms; B. F. Hooker, Milan, Grand Inner Guard; G. Sieferle, Nashville, Grand Outer Guard; B. H. Owen, Clarksville, Supreme Representative, together with representatives of a constitutional number of lodges.

The Grand Lodge rank was conferred on a large number of Past Chancellors.

The reports of the grand officers were read, and showed a very prosperous and highly satisfactory state of the order in their jurisdiction, as well as throughout the entire country. Much business of importance was transacted, and the session proved to be one of great profit and social enjoyment to all the members present. A good many from our lodge in this city attended and all express themselves as much pleased at the treatment they received in Nashville, and enjoyed themselves very much.

Rev. J. W. Hanner, D. D.
On Sunday last we had the privilege of listening to the Rev. J. W. Hanner at the Methodist church. He took his text from the 5th chapter of Ephesians, 2d verse. After hearing many of the great men of the different denominations, we unhesitatingly pronounce this sermon, one of the finest and most eloquent specimens of pulpit power and oratory to which we have ever listened. The passages on love, on suffering, on the cross, exhibited a wealth and splendor of language rarely possessed, and presented to the mind beautiful pictures, jeweled with gems of profound thought and true religion.

The Clarksville Reading Club will meet at the residence of Mrs. Hugh Owen, on Second street, the third Tuesday night in February.

Readers—Mr. C. Cooke; alternates—Mr. J. West, Mr. C. Stack- er, Mr. W. D. Turnley. Miss Mary Macrae, alt., Mrs. J. F. Couts. Miss J. Wallace, alt., Miss McGary. Recitations—Miss Garland and Miss Mattill.

Essays—Mr. J. Rudolph, Miss Lou Leavelle.

Question—Origin of expression, "Crowd like tears." What modern poet utilizes it?—in what poem?

For general discussion—Swift.

Death of Mr. J. J. Perkins.
It does seem as if the grim destroyer, Death, has been more than usually active in our midst this winter, and it is now our regretful duty to chronicle the death of another of our good citizens, Mr. John J. Perkins, who died at his residence in South Clarksville on Sunday night last. The deceased lived to the advanced age of sixty years, and through all these years his life was honorable, upright and without reproach. He was what has been fittingly termed the noblest work of God, an honest man. To his family and relations there can come no more consoling thought than that he will be sadly missed by those among whom he lived, and his memory kept green in the hearts of all who knew him. His funeral services were solemnized at his residence on last Tuesday morning by the Rev. J. J. Spencer, and his remains interred at the City cemetery.

Capt. S. M. T. Carries, of the famed Chickasaw Guards, the crack military company of the United States, was married, February 3d, inst, to Miss Katie Kerr, a charming and popular belle of that city. The wedding was private, only the members of the bride's family, the attendants, Lieut. H. L. Goison and Miss Lizzie Colquitt, of Georgia, being present. Rev. Bishop Quinnell, of Clarksville, officiated. The newly wedded pair left on the noon train for New Orleans. On their return the Chickasaws will tender a reception to their gallant Captain who has proven victor in another hard, yet more pleasant contest.

Our friendly neighbor, the Leaf, says we "will be a genius by the time two or three good crops of White Burley are raised." That's so. We always thought that the Leaf would be a little better, and we are sorry men do not live to be Methuselahs now-a-days.

Floods.

During the past week there have been heavy rains and floods in the south and south-west. At New Orleans last Sunday the rain storm was the heaviest ever recorded at that signal office. The cautionary signal flag displayed at the Custom-house was torn into shreds. Many breaks were reported along the levees, and the entire lower part of the city was submerged with water, causing great damage to fences and other property. A dispatch from that city said:

The crevasse in the new and old canal levees submerged nearly all that portion of the city west of Broad Street between the two canals, and all west of John Street and north as far as Gravelle street.

A building on the corner of the canal levees, embracing one hundred squares, the streets and sidewalks are entirely covered with water. Great efforts are being made by the authorities to clear the breaks in the canal levees, notwithstanding the water at all points is rising. The shell road from New Lake End to the Half-way House is two feet under water. Over three hundred fences were blown down. The roof of a wing of the State House in which some of the offices of the Superintendent of Education and Commissioner of Immigration, was blown off, and the records received a wetting. A large number of the levees were blown to pieces. The signal officer reports threatening weather, with brisk, easterly winds, which will have the effect of forcing more water into the city from the lake and gulf. The water in the rear of the city is rising and spreading rapidly. The indications are that by Tuesday noon, all the city west of Calabone street, from Carrollton to Elysian fields streets, will be submerged.

The water along the Mobile railroad is higher to-day, with indications that the entire roadbed, from Michael's to Lookout station is submerged.

Great destruction to property at Omaha and Kansas City, is also reported. Telegraph and railroad communications were interrupted in many stations. The storm and rain in the northwest in some parts, was unprecedented. The Missouri and Kansas rivers threatened overflow their banks, and great destruction to life and property is feared.

Death of a Very Estimable and Aged Lady.
Mrs. Nancy T. Johnson, one of the oldest residents of our city, died at the residence of her son, Mr. J. T. Johnson, on the Southside, last Thursday night. She will be buried in this city to-day. Funeral at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. M. H. Moore, at 10 o'clock this morning.

Have your pianos tuned. Prof. J. C. Boden, the well-known piano and organ tuner is in the city for the purpose of tuning those instruments. Any persons desiring his services will please leave orders with Mr. J. C. Parker, at Owen & Moore's Book and Music Store.

Our readers will not fail to read with much pleasure and enjoyment, the highly interesting and instructive essay on "Childhood and Nature," delivered by that talented gentleman, Prof. J. W. Caldwell of the S. W. P. University, before the Teachers Institute held in our city last December, and published at the special request of the Institute.

Now is the time for advertisers to send in their ads. Our subscription list is fast increasing and we propose to make the CHRONICLE the liveliest local paper in the state.

RILEY puts a witty point on his pencil and scribbles about our starting a "temperance column," and then turns over and scribbles the destruction of a wholesale whiskey house at Paducah, Ky. We are not surprised that he should deprecate anything going towards the destruction of the glorious field from whence he draws his inspiration that enables him to ladle those learned essays on White Burley, which are so replete with the solidest truths of wisdom and the fairest flowers of poetry and wit.

New Advertisements.
Read on our first page of the extraordinary bargains in boots, and slippers offered by V. L. Williams on his "bargain counter." He is winding up his business here and offers these goods at half price. Don't fail to give him a call.

That active and stirring firm, Cunningham Bros., grocers, is now firmly established here, and fully prepared to meet all orders and attend to the wants of every class of customers. Read carefully their new advertisement in this issue. Those wanting nice fresh goods should call upon them.

Look at the low rates of excursion tickets to New Orleans and return, offered by the Louisville & Nashville railroad company. This is a splendid opportunity to go and witness the Mardi-gras carnival. For all the particulars and rates, call on the ticket agent at the depot.

Ladies and gentlemen, we would call your prompt attention to the great reduction and special offers in new goods by Messrs. Coulter Bros. & Stratton. Read their advertisement.

Amusements.
Sarah Bernhardt will play in Nashville next Thursday night.

Kate Claxton went here Monday night. No necessity to raise steam in the fire engine.

Miss Charlotte Thompson had a good house on last Saturday night to witness her performance of "The Planter's Wife." Suffice it to say that Miss Thompson sustained her well-deserved and brilliant reputation as a star actress of the first magnitude. Her support was very good. Our critique of the play is crowded out.

ARLINGTON'S MINSTRELS.
This side-splitting, mirth-provoking and rib-ticking combination of Ethiopian character delineators, gave one performance at Elder's Opera House on last Wednesday night. They played to a splendid house, notwithstanding the rainy night. Their entertainment from beginning to end was the best we have ever attended. Billy Arlington is in himself a perfect host, and with his talented troupe, his entertainment is not excelled. Anybody who enjoys negro minstrelsy should see his troupe.

The ladies and C. C. G.'s return thanks for an elegant serenade at the bazaar.

The C. C. G.'s Bazaar.

The grand bazaar and promenade concert, given under the auspices of the ladies of our city for the benefit of the Clarksville City Guards, was opened last Tuesday night, the 8th inst., to the anxious and expectant public, and the sight that greeted the eyes of its patrons as they entered the door of the large and brilliantly illuminated hall of the new Tobacco Exchange beggars description, and would have paralyzed the descriptive faculties of the most facile, fluent and florid pencil painter that ever essayed to portray in language the varied colors the beautiful visions of a mid-summer night's dream.

If anyone should have told us that the ladies of our city, whose taste and genius in such matters we know to be exquisite and unrivaled, could, upon short notice, have arranged such a lovely and bewitching scene, our credulity would have been insulted, and we would have laughed in scorn at the very idea. But there it was before our eyes, a view resplendent and bewitching enough to charm a lost and wandering peri, and make her cease to long for paradise. But why attempt to describe it? No modern scribbler in this dull time of prose is equal to the task. So let us to details.

As soon as the assistance of the ladies was asked, they all, both old and young, set to work with an energy and will which betokened a perfect success of the undertaking, and by the time the night arrived for the doors to be thrown open, everything was in perfect readiness. The booths, of which there are four, were handsomely and richly draped with flowing lace curtains and other material, ornamented here and there with various-colored ribbons made into bows and loops, and filled to crowding with all kinds of useful and beautiful articles of real worth and genuine merit, to be sold and raffled. Each booth was presided over by one of the older ladies, assisted each night by a bevy of young ladies, who took real and heart-felt interest and delight in offering for sale and attending to the raffling of the different articles. We enumerate some of the many valuable articles that will be offered. It would simply be impossible to recount them all:

- 1 Baker & Brother's buggy, $1 a chance.
- 1 Clarksville Wagon Co.'s 2-horse wagon, $1 a chance.
- 1 Pair Moriwether & Patch's best make, 25¢ a chance.
- 1 Parker brooding-shot-gun, $1 a chance.
- 1 Handmade clock, $1 a chance.
- 1 Buffalo robe, $1 a chance.
- 1 Silver-plated tea set, $1 a chance.
- 1 Silver-plated cream set, $1 a chance.
- 1 Silver-plated coffee set, $1 a chance.
- 1 Silver-plated sugar set, $1 a chance.
- 1 Silver-plated butter set, $1 a chance.
- 1 Silver-plated fruit set, $1 a chance.
- 1 Silver-plated dessert set, $1 a chance.
- 1 Silver-plated breakfast set, $1 a chance.
- 1 Silver-plated dinner set, $1 a chance.
- 1 Silver-plated tea set, $1 a chance.
- 1 Silver-plated cream set, $1 a chance.
- 1 Silver-plated coffee set, $1 a chance.
- 1 Silver-plated sugar set, $1 a chance.
- 1 Silver-plated butter set, $1 a chance.
- 1 Silver-plated fruit set, $1 a chance.
- 1 Silver-plated dessert set, $1 a chance.
- 1 Silver-plated breakfast set, $1 a chance.
- 1 Silver-plated dinner set, $1 a chance.

Our merchants, manufacturers and private citizens have taken a lively and highly appreciated interest in the affair and donated many valuable articles outright, and furnished others at reduced price, to be sold, if possible, or else to be returned free of charge.

We notice a few of the donations, though there are many others we failed to get:

An elegant case, by Mrs. Bioch (which she ordered especially from Cincinnati, just for this occasion), and which was tastefully and most appropriately decorated with military emblems and equipments, designed by the estimable lady herself. This was placed upon a separate stand, and formed one of the chief attractions of the bazaar.

A beautiful lamp, by Mrs. Dr. Green.

A pair of Canary birds, by Mrs. Dr. Shearer.

A Canary (a splendid songster), by Miss Maud Thomas.

A load of fine Pittsburgh coal (to be raffled for), by Mrs. F. P. Graeco.

An exquisite silver fruit-stand, by Mr. G. A. Roth.

One box canned fruit, one box fine claret, one barrel flour, by Capt. J. J. Crumman.

One fine steel plow, by Messrs. Meriwether & Patch.

A finely dressed ham and pig, by Mr. Chas. Lehman.

A large turkey and one-half dozen fine hams, by Mr. Ed. Darr, and other donations too numerous to mention.

An elegant supper was spread each night, under the kindly and masterly management of Messdames S. P. Beaumont, S. B. Stewart, Calvin Couts, Chas. G. Smith and A. J. Howell.

The supper was largely patronized each night, and was pronounced by all who partook of it to be an exhibition of the highest perfection in the culinary art.

We cannot leave this department without mentioning the valuable services rendered to the ladies by Aunt Rose Carr, an estimable old servant, whose assistance in an affair of this kind is invaluable.

Ben McCoy's string-band was on hand each night, and gave some good music.

We cannot give any estimate of the amount cleared by the bazaar, as we go to press before it is over, and the proceeds have not as yet been counted. Suffice it to say that it is a grand success, notwithstanding the very rainy weather that has lasted continuously since it commenced. We understand it will be kept open to-day and to-morrow, and we urge all to attend who have not yet done so. It is well worth a visit.

And now, ladies, in conclusion, we are instructed to extend to you, one and all, the sincere, deep and hearty thanks of the C. C. G.'s for your disinterested and highly appreciated kindness, and if they cannot say more, it is because they can find no expression for their thoughts.

Waitfield & Co. the Clever Men.
We stated last week that Mr. J. P. Y. Whitfield of the "Sewanee Planing Mill," had generously donated to the C. C. G.'s, the lumber to build their booths at the bazaar. Mr. Whitfield did do this clever act, and we propose to "sink or swim, live or die, survive or perish" by the assertion, but he is not of the "Sewanee Planing Mill," but of the firm of Waitfield & Co., extensive lumber dealers on Commerce street.

The Clarksville Chronicle, edited by Ed. C. Campbell, is now one of the spiciest and ablest edited papers in Tennessee.—Union City Anchor.

Reading Club.

The Clarksville Reading Club met at the residence of Mrs. Stacker on Tuesday night, Feb. 1st. The program, as prepared and published, was carried out by members of the club, but it was pleasantly varied with music and reading from visitors. Among these were Mrs. Josh. Ries, Miss Hulsh Lovell and Miss Eva Williams. The last entertainment was charmingly with an essay, "A night on the Atlantic coast."

The discussion on "The Ancient Mariner," was pronounced by a visitor, the "best" we have had. Mrs. Clay Stacker's paper was interesting and instructive—elements not always combined even in excellent writing. We have not time to notice the exercises in detail, but it has been a long time since we have had so much amusement on the "Volcan" as that given by West. But, if he struck a strain from the heart of the dead mood, what shall we say of "Auld Robin Gray," as played and sung by Mrs. Catching? My heart has been so sad and so full in a long while.

The club now numbers some of the finest musical talent in the city—teachers and amateurs. In this connection we will be pardoned the mention of Miss Mary Adams upon whom we have so often called for contributions, and who sang Tuesday night was much enjoyed.

Physicians' Fees.
At the meeting of the physicians held last week to establish a uniform rate of charges for medical and surgical services, it was also decided, that, inasmuch as the custom had grown up among our merchants and other business men of the city, of presenting and collecting their bills the first of every month, they too would adopt this plan, and persons owing medical bills may hereafter expect to have them presented on the first of each month. This is a very good idea, and is not without what is just and right. Doctors cannot live any more than other men, and they receive just and prompt payment for their services. Be prepared to meet your doctors bill.

The Tobacco Leaf seems a little miffed at our poking fun at them about White Burley, and adds that they can stand it as long as the planters stand in and subscribe for the Leaf. Ah! you've let the cat out of the bag, have you? Then it's your subscription list, is it, you wish to swell? We thought you were advocating it in the interests of the tobacco men and the "dear farmers."

THE CHRONICLE does not need to swell its subscription list by selling tobacco seed, and throwing in a paper and chromo to boot.

THE Board of Mayor and Aldermen, upon motion of alderman Faxon, passed a resolution last Thursday evening, to have a brick pavement nine feet wide, built in front of the Public School Building, and to be paid for out of the City's general funds. A good move.

MR. NEAL GUNN, of our county kindly sent us an autograph letter of "Old Hickory," Andrew Jackson. The writing is clear and well preserved and is on political subjects.

"Cheap Excursion to New Orleans."
The Louisville & Nashville Railroad will sell Round-trip Excursion Tickets from Clarksville to New Orleans, commencing Feb. 19, continuing until March 10, at the extremely low rate of $21.50. Tickets are good returning until March 20. Now is your opportunity to witness the great "Mardi Gras Carnival," on which New Orleans will this year exhibit a fabulous amount of money, and present a series of parades, pageants and entertainments never equaled in splendor and attractiveness in this country. The "ball opens" with a grand military parade February 22, in which a large number of visiting organizations participate, following February 24, by a street parade of the "Knights of Momus." February 28, arrival and reception of His Majesty, Rex; March 1st, Mardi Gras—magnificent day parade of the King of the Carnival, Pharty Phanny Phellows, Kings Own, etc., night gorgeously illuminated street parade of the world-famous Mistic Krewe of Comus.

Clarksville Tobacco Market.

OFFICE OF THE CHRONICLE.
Clarksville, Feb. 12, 1881.

The weather and roads, the high-water and byways, are still against much improvement in volume of business in the market. The offerings, about 60,000 lbs., show little interest in business. The breaks were unattractive, both in order and quality. High case tobacco were earlier and were based on some speculative in consequence. Hogheads in good order, approaching it, were rather full in price. New York is mainly quiet, though some moderate sales have been made since the thundering echoes of Messrs. Sawyer, Wallace & Co.'s big sale have begun to die away. We quote:
